Residents to receive tax refund

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Who says you can't beat City Hall?

Resident William Farrell did and about 20 other Romulus residents will benefit from it.

Farrell told councilmembers Monday night his property tax bill had a deadline payment date of Sept. 30. Farrell said he made payment the next day and believed there is at least one day leeway when a bill is due on a Sunday.

Romulus Treasurer James Napiorkowski said he was simply following charter laws and regulations with fees and payments to the city. Napiorkowski said the charter states taxes must be paid on Sept. 30.

Councilmember Noah P. Bergeron Jr. said Napiorkowski should show some leeway. Bergeron said even the Internal Revenue Service allows a business courtesy day.

"If it's good enough for the federal tax revenue, it should be good for Romulus," he said. "I don't think we should be debating that. I think everyone who was overcharged should be refunded."

Napiorkowski suggested councilmembers make an amendment to the charter to provide for the leeway if a payment day falls on a Sunday or holiday.

Councilmember Jimmie C. Raspberry said the charter already includes the Sunday or holiday.

"When action falls upon a holiday or Sunday, then such holiday or Sunday should be excluded," Raspberry read from the charter of Romulus. As a result of Farrell's actions, councilmembers voted to reimburse all 18 residents who paid their bills on Monday but were charged for being a day late. The vote was approved unanimously.

Student government raises homecoming requirements

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH
ANP News Editor

Some Romulus parents and students are upset over a recent decision by the Romulus High School student government to raise the grade point average requirement for homecoming king, queen and court this year from 2.0 to 2.5.

The tougher requirement means more than 40 students will not be able to compete for court honors, according to senior Lisa Brooks.

"I waited three years and now I can't run for homecoming court," she said. "Like a lot of other girls, I was excited about running for court. They didn't give us a chance to get our grades up. They just told us we were disqualified."

Lisa's mother, Carol Brooks, is upset over the timing of the decision. She believes the decision was made hastily, and should have been postponed until next year to give seniors a chance to participate.

"They could have made this decision in the spring so a lot of girls would not have gotten their hopes up," she said. "They told the girls two weeks before homecoming they couldn't run. A lot of these girls have bought dresses and have dreamed about being on the homecoming court. To take that away at the last minute is not right. It is unfair."

Stacie Brown, student government president, defended the new requirement, saying it will help improve the image of the school.

"Being on the homecoming court should be students whom others will look up to," she said. "They should be representative of the student body and good students."

Brown said the student government staged two open door meetings - one last week and one Monday - where a total of four students showed up to oppose the requirement.

Last year, more than 70 girls and 40 boys applied for homecoming court.

"We decided then the majority of students wanted this," she said. Brown said there are 26 girls, including herself, and 12 boys running for court this year. The smaller number of candidates will help ease the selection process, she said.

"While they are not as many to choose from, we definitely have a good mix of cliques," she said. "This is not a matter of discrimination, but a matter of regulation. No matter what you do in life, you have to have terms to deal with. I think this was a good decision."

Romulus High Principal Tom Dolan agreed.

"I'm not interested in second-guessing the student government," he said. "This is a decision the student government thought out clearly."

"Obviously, we didn't eliminate a lot of kids. We have close to 40 kids running for court this year whereas some schools might have only five or six."

"What you have to remember is the criteria is minimum. The idea is not to distract from the homecoming festivities but to set some minimal standards for students to follow."

Councilmembers approve resolution

Councilmembers gave their nod of support to Mayor Beverly McAnally last week in approving a resolution in favor of the Vining Road Interstate-94 interchange project.

Dennis Oakes, director of Community Development, said Romulus is assisting the Michi-

Weekend crash on I-275 kills two

By THEODORE G. COUTILISH
ANP News Editor

A head-on car crash on Interstate-275 left two dead Saturday evening, and Romulus police with more questions than answers.

Robert G. Reid, 58, of Romulus and Cynthia Bourne, 39, of Northville were both killed in the fourth double fatal and 13th and 14th fatalities in Romulus this year, according to police officer Rick Schwartz.

No other cars or passengers were involved in the crash, Schwartz said.

He said at about 8:45 p.m. Reid was driving a 1981 Ford Fairmont station wagon on southbound I-275, south of Eureka, when his car slid across the median and began heading the wrong way into northbound traffic. Moments later, the station wagon plowed head-on into Bourne's 1981 Subaru, which was in the far right lane. "Reid was clearly going southbound on northbound I-275," Schwartz said. "The two cars hit dead-on. Neither driver had a chance.

"We don't have a lot of information at this time. We're still digging for clues."

As of Wednesday, police investigators were sorting through more questions than they were answering during the investigation. They did not know why Reid was driving the wrong way, and why he crossed over the median.

Making the case even more bizarre was the fact Reid was involved in a hit-and-run accident two hours earlier on northbound Telegraph Road, north of Pennsylvania Road, in Taylor.

In that accident, Reid had made a U-turn in front of a semi-trailer truck and the truck struck his station wagon, causing minor damage to both vehicles, according to Taylor police officer Phillip Weycker.

Reid immediately left the scene of the accident, Weycker said.

Romulus and Taylor police are investigating the case.

Homeless shelter nearly completed

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Plans for the Family Center, a place where homeless families can seek refuge, are a little off schedule, but officials are still hoping to open the doors in late fall.

The center is in a building on the Eloise property at Henry Ruff and Michigan Avenue in Westland. Thirty-five communities in Wayne County are helping to fund the center with Community Block Grant Funds.

"We feel we've made a lot of progress. It might not be open Oct. 1 like we planned - we should know by our next meeting in October when we'll be open," said Joe Benyo, a member of the advisory board.

Advisory board members decided it would be better to delay the opening, in order to put everything in "its proper place."

The building has been gutted, but the inside construction hasn't started yet. The construction costs came in $200,000 greater than what was expected. The council will award the contract to the lowest bidder, for a cost of approximately $920,000.

"As soon as we get all the funds, we'll award the contract," Benyo said.

One of the key people involved in the center, John Schwab, deputy director of Wayne County Metropolitan Services, has left to take a job in the community affairs department at National Bank of Detroit.

"We really hate to see Jack leave," Benyo said.

The director for the center will be Linda Makowski.

Boy Scouts of America will be knocking on Romulus residents' doors this week through Nov. 3 trying to sell tickets for a Scout Show at Cobo Hall in Detroit Nov. 3. Romulus councilmembers agreed last week to drop the permit fee required for the Scouts to go door-to-door in the city to sell the tickets. Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers from Wayne County as well as from Oakland and Macomb counties will be displaying their works and skills at Cobo Hall. The show will have more than 400 booths and displays. Romulus residents interested in attending the show can get a ticket from the Scouts in uniform walking through the local neighborhoods.

City officials help celebrate ceremony

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Special Writer

More than 60 people attended the ground-breaking ceremony of the new 65-unit Senior Citizen Co-op Romulus Cooperative Apartments Friday. There were a number of distinguished guests including Romulus Mayor Beverly McNally, a handful of councilmembers and representatives from state offices such as Lisa Borio from U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's office.

Valentine Dabich, president of Cooperative Services Inc., opened the ceremony by welcoming all the guests and offering the mayor a $69,957 check for the co-op project.

"We are not only making a building, but we're building a community," Dabich said. "Co-op gives you control of the remaining years of your life. How? By electing people to run the building."

Dabich said each senior has a skill to offer one another and should share those skills once the seniors settled down in their new homes.

The $2.9 million project, which is expected to be completed by sometime next year, will join the other 14 projects the nonprofit consumer cooperative has erected in the Detroit Metro Area.

The idea for the co-op housing is to have seniors maintain almost total control of their everyday lives in the building. This means seniors can screen potential neighbors, oversee financial responsibilities and decide what type of furnishings they want.

Seniors will also be able to vote for a building council made up of a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Representatives from the three floors will meet with the council monthly to discuss various aspects of the building.

The council is elected on a yearly basis, and is responsible for informing all residents on decisions affecting the apartment complex, according to Fred Wood, general manager of Cooperative Services. Wood said Romulus has set aside $100,000 to show support of the senior project.

Once the seniors move into the complex, they won't really be on their own. Dabich introduced Elizabeth Kairis, president of the Southgate Co-op, who will act as the sister co-op to the Romulus facility.

I'm here to welcome you to our way of living. I'm happy to be here to offer our building to Romulus, Kairis said.

Funding for the Romulus project will come in a direct loan from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, including rent subsidies.

The building will be built across from the city administrative offices in Romulus, and will be restricted to low-income seniors and the physically handicapped.

Besides the lengthy screening process, an applicant must have an income that falls below $14,500 to be considered for occupancy in the project, according to spokeswoman Cheryl Ross.

The three-story building includes a passenger elevator. There will be 65 one-bedroom apartments with seven apartments especially designed for the physically handicapped. There will also be one apartment for the on-site custodian.

An emergency call system will be set up for fire detection and burglary.

There is no entrance fee, however, residents can join Cooperative Services for a $100 membership fee and if they do, no security deposit is required.

Each apartment will include an electric range, refrigerator, disposal, carpeting, hot water baseboard heating with individual unit controls and air conditioning. There will also be central laundry facilities.

New principal fresh in ideas

When it comes to breaking conventionality, you've got to hand it to Lynne Mossoian.

While it's not odd to see ink notes enscribed on someone's hand in an elementary school, it is if you're talking about the principal.

But if you know Mossoian, holder of an Eastern Michigan University master's degree, former educator and administrator at Beacon Day Treatment for 11 years and new principal of Hale Creek Elementary School, you know this is not out of the ordinary.

Sticky notes, you say? She doesn't need those silly sticky notes.

Not when she can use her right palm.

"You're not going to put that in the paper, are you?" she says, blushing like a school girl. "I don't want anyone to think I'm a flake. The notes are no big deal, really. I thought if I wrote them down on my hand, I wouldn't forget."

Following a year leave of absence to take care of her now 10-month-old Spencer, Mossoian is making an immediate impact with her creative ideas and quick smile.

Among the most exciting ideas is the "Positive Discipline Program." Along with program director Jeffrey Royale, school facilitator Sheila Stasak, Mossoian and others helped create last summer a specific set of rules and consequences to monitor the behavior of all students.

The program is a specific outline for teachers to deal with student discipline in a positive manner and correct poor social habits or unruly children.

"We don't use food or money as incentives in the program," Mossoian said. "We work on their self-esteem and try and give them positive feedback on a daily basis."

For Mossoian, walking through classes is an emotional experience. She bounces around like a mother at a family picnic. The greetings, the friendliness, are constant. Talk to her for five minutes and she'll make you feel like you've known her your whole life.

"I find it easy to relate to people and show my emotions," she said. "Getting along with people is a big part of this job. It's exciting to become an integral part in their lives."

Talking with Mossoian in her office is just a little less dis-jointing than trying to talk with her in class.

Almost everyone who passes by is greeted with a "How's it going?" or a wink by Mossoian. She simply can't resist. She seems to live to care about people.

"It's exciting to start fresh with a new staff and new students," she said. "It's fun to come to a school where you are so well received by the parents and the community. They make me feel like I'm at home here."

Mossoian hangs out today in a large but prim-looking office. She took over the office last spring as interim principal, so she's still decorating. Besides a desk, center table and chairs, there are numerous posters and pictures.

None is more appropriate than a poster of another energetic woman - Lucille Ball - in the famous chocolate candy scene from her television show.

"That's my favorite," Mossoian said. "Lucy's show was great."

After an hour with Mossoian, it's easy to conclude she has the charm of a New York socialite and the tongue of a saleswoman. But this same woman, who is so easily likeable, has her off moments, too. Like when she is trying to describe the negative aspects of her job.

"How about just saying there's never enough time in the day to accomplish the things I would like to get down," she said. "There are a lot of administrative duties I have to take care of, but they need to be dealt with."

"Could you just use that in your paper?"

We'll think about it.

mit $1.7 million to the project, while Metro World has agreed to a private investment match of $2 million.

Romulus, Wayne County, MDOT and Metro World have been jointly working together toward the development of the Metro Center development area, a mixed-use project proposed to encompass over six million square feet of new construction.

The resolution was sent to James P. Pitz, director of MDOT, State Senator William Faust and State Representative James Kosteva.

About 80 walkers are going to kick up their heels in Romulus this weekend for a walkathon to help feed the hungry.

Nancy Paul, administrative assistant for the "Crop Walk," said the 11-mile walk will begin at the Romulus Community Methodist Church at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

"Walkers will go down Huron River Dr. to Belleville and end half way at St. Anthony's Church. At the halfway mark, they will have pop and cookies. Then they will turn around and walk back to the Methodist Church," Paul said.

A staff will be on hand if anyone needs medical assistance. Carolyn Landis, director of the walk, said 25 percent of the money raised will go to the Romulus Helping Hand and the Romulus Help Center. The other 75 percent will be distributed nationally to feed the hungry and to help when there is a natural disaster.

"Last year, we collected $1,511. This year we are hoping to collect more. We are really excited about this walk because there are more than 80 people who signed up this year," Landis said.

Anyone interested in walking for a good cause can register at the Romulus Community United Methodist Church starting gate Sunday or call 941-0736 for more information.

Romulus councilmembers approved Mayor Beverly McNally's appointments of two members to the Housing Commission last week.

4th Friday results in

To most school districts, losing students is costly.

To Romulus Community Schools, it is being encouraged.

On Friday, called the Fourth Friday Count, the district reported 4,180 students, down from 4,361 a year ago.

The drop in enrollment is a good sign because it means the district will have more money to spend on the rest of the student body, according to Terry LeCesne, school administrator in charge of the Fourth Friday Count.

"We are out-of-formula now and that means our funding comes from the tax base, not by how many students we have," LeCesne said. "We are very happy with the count. It fits in well with our overall projections."

block of Beverly Road will serve on the commission until Nov. 3, 1991 and Elder Reginald from the 5000 block of Dexter will serve on the commission until Feb. 6, 1993.

Mitchell and Reginald will be taking the seats of commissioners Theresa Washington and Mary Tyus.

Romulus Police Chief Fred Dansby asked councilmembers for approval Monday to up the traffic control on the east side of Sterling Street, south of Goddard.

James Panos, director of the Department of Public Works, said there is a visual obstruction of on-coming traffic and a number of parking problems in the Sterling area.

Dansby and Panos asked councilmembers to approve the following traffic control order: • Parallel parking on the east side of Sterling, south of Goddard to the end of the road.

• "No Parking, Here to Corner" on the east side of Sterling to a point 25 feet south of Goddard.

Councilmembers approved the traffic control by a unanimous vote.

Homeless shelter nearly completed

Plans for the Family Center, a place where homeless families can seek refuge, are a little off schedule, but officials are still hoping to open the doors in late fall.

The center is in a building on the Eloise property at Henry Ruff and Michigan Avenue in Westland. Thirty-five communities in Wayne County are helping to fund the center with Community Block Grant Funds.

"We feel we've made a lot of progress. It might not be open Oct. 1 like we planned - we should know by our next meeting in October when we'll be open," said Joe Benyo, a member of the advisory board.

Advisory board members decided it would be better to delay the opening, in order to put everything in "its proper place."

The building has been gutted, but the inside construction hasn't started yet. The construction costs came in $200,000 greater than what was expected. The council will award the contract to the lowest bidder, for a cost of approximately $920,000.

"As soon as we get all the funds, we'll award the contract," Benyo said.

One of the key people involved in the center, John Schwab, deputy director of Wayne County Metropolitan Services, has left to take a job in the community affairs department at National Bank of Detroit.

"We really hate to see Jack leave," Benyo said.

The director for the center will be Linda Makowski.

At the last advisory meeting, Wayne-Westland schools clothing bank volunteers were asked to help supply clothing for the families at the center.

"They only have a limited amount of resources - it's a little tough for them to supply clothing to us and the community. But they will work in a cooperative effort to help the center set up its own clothing bank," Benyo said.

Once the clothing bank opens, it will need volunteers to help run it.

"We're also encouraging people in the community to donate money to buy personal items such as underwear, socks and other personal items," he said.

Advisory board members are hoping some organizations will stage fundraisers to help them buy these items.

One local organization has already jumped on the bandwagon. Annapolis Hospital Westland and Wayne will supply some of the food for the families.

"Not only will the hospital supply food for the center - they will have a dietician on-call to make sure the meals are nutritious," Benyo said.

One of the items on the center wish list is a microwave.

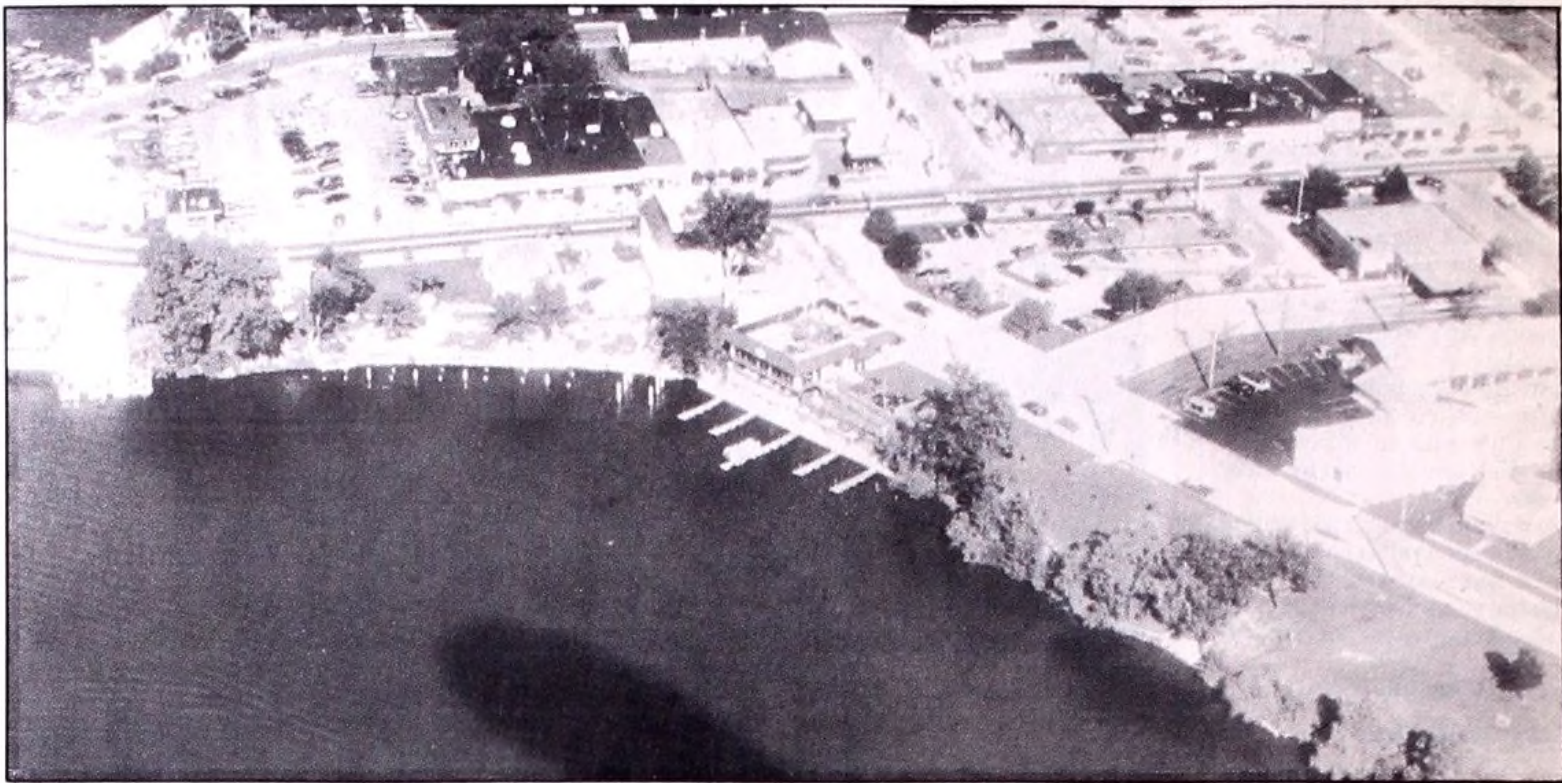

Ford Motor Co. Livonia plant has asked to see a copy of the wish list. Ford workers have already collected more than $500 for the center, according to Benyo.

The issue of whether the children at the center should attend Wayne-Westland schools has also been resolved.

"It wouldn't be feasible to have them attend the Wayne-Westland schools, instead we are going to provide transportation so that they can stay in their own school district," Benyo said.

Families may stay at the center no longer than 30 days. During that time, Benyo said, workers will try to get the families "back on their feet."

Annapolis Hospital chaplains will be "on-call" as well to fulfill the religious needs of families staying at the center, Benyo said.

SCHOOL NEWS

Mall trip
is lessonBy MARGO DEWEY
ANP Special Writer

Jamie Wood couldn't wait for the scavenger hunt to begin.

Wood, a Romulus High School ninth grader, joined 110 of her classmates at Southland Mall in Taylor Thursday as a requirement of a pilot program.

The program, called "School Within a School," focuses on a select group of ninth-graders who learn math, science, social studies and English through 45-minute class sessions in a secluded area in the school. The lessons also include taking monthly field trips to interconnect the students' studies with everyday life.

The theme in September was "the mall."

The students dodged into a variety of stores trying to find adjectives on advertisements in the shops for an English requirement as well as estimating the distance of 10 parking spaces as part of a math assignment.

What Wood and her teammates, Allan Ellison, 13; Jeff Wilkinson, 14; and Dan Higgins, 14, didn't expect to find during their search was an educational lesson from the assistant manager of Thom McAn shoes. Brian Beverst told the high school students to "get a college education."

"I had an employee here who used to say, 'How do you like them shoes?' The English language is very important," Beverst said. The students were randomly selected for the program, which is designed to keep students interested in educational studies.

Darrell Kenyon, a science teacher and one of four teachers in the program, said the majority of students who drop out at Romulus are in the ninth grade.

"We're trying to do something to keep them in school. There is a positive response with the students. We feel if a student drops out, we're responsible," Kenyon said. The other teachers, Gail Norbert (English), Norbert Glover (social studies) and Lance Knudson (math) team with Kenyon during daily meetings to review what needs to be improved or what is working for the pilot program, Kenyon said.

By bringing students and teachers together in a close working relationship and eliminating outside distractions, school officials believe students will integrate easier into their new environment.

Before the students broke into groups of four for the scavenger hunt, they listened to a guest speaker - Charleen Lamphear.

School
returns

The school year has begun, and students have plunged deep into their studies. Learning, however, does not exclusively mean reading books, listening to lectures and writing term papers.

Learning also involves a whole host of other activities. Everything from chorus to the school play, to student government to field trips is part of learning.

Associated Newspapers will once again serve as a support system for area schools as we offer the School News pages in our newspapers.

The School News page will be featured the first and third Thursday of every month, and will place students in the spotlight.

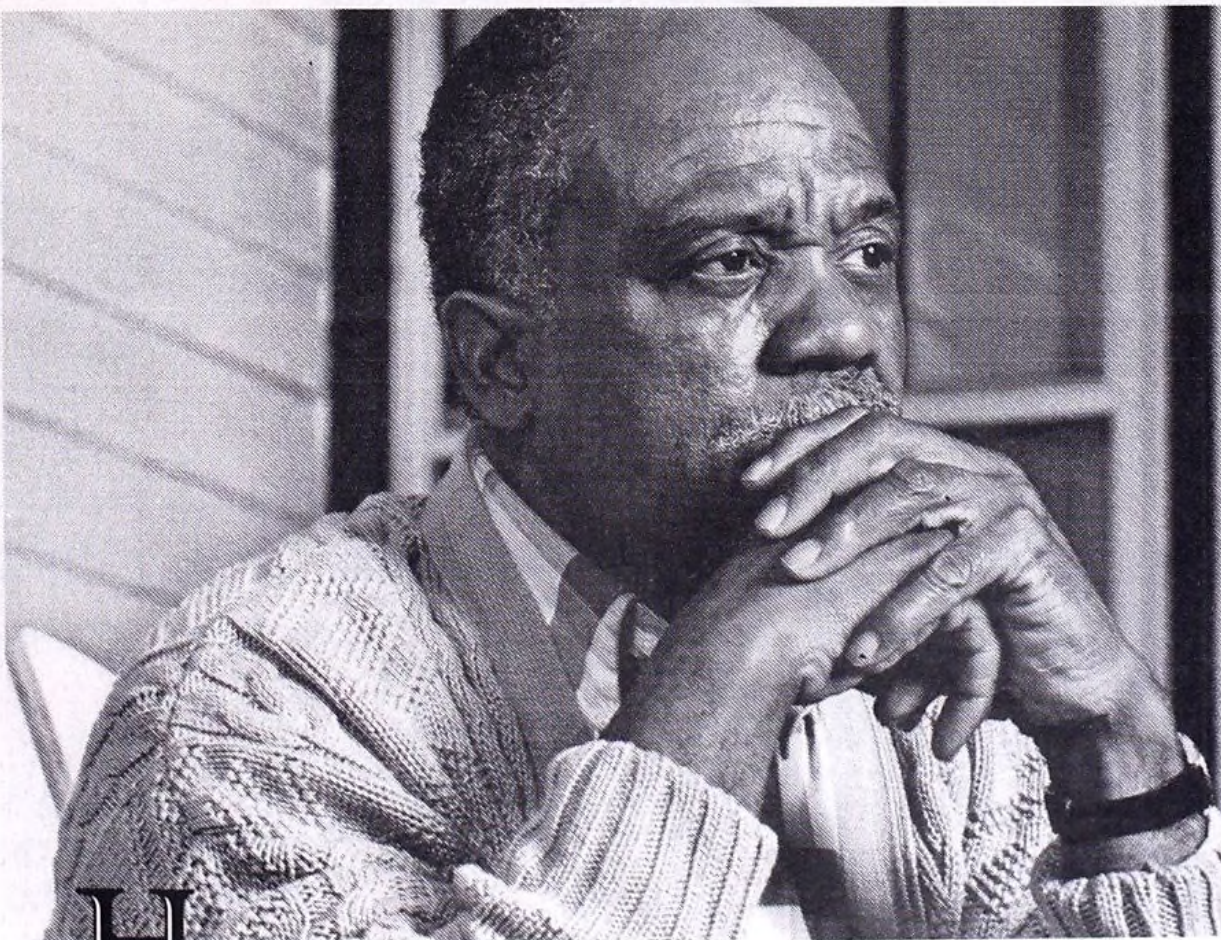

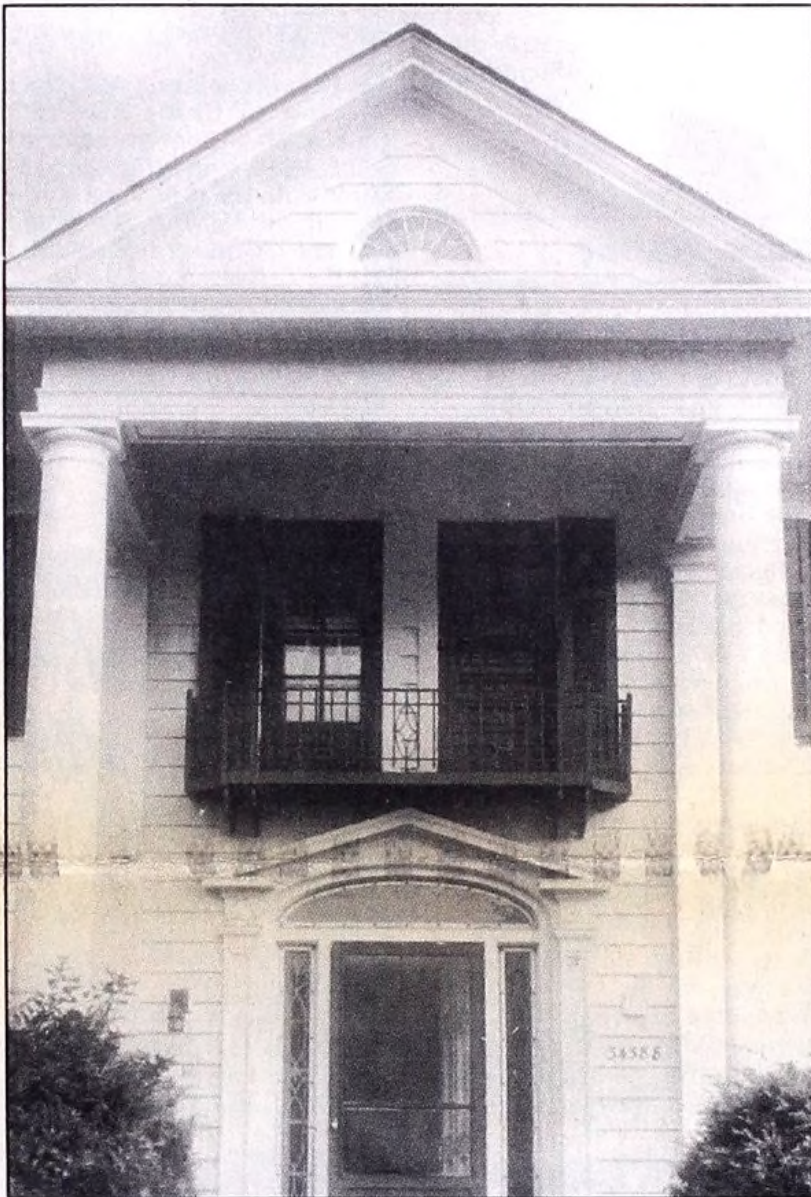

We will profile some of the brightest and most innovative youths in the area, as well as provide information and photographs of school events. Honor rolls will also be published.

The support of school personnel is necessary to make the School News page a success, however. Teachers, principals, parents and students are invited to call us about interesting programs and events in their schools.

"It is our goal to promote students, make them feel good about themselves and good about learning," said Associated Newspapers Managing Editor Barbara Wilson.

Young
buyers?

Students in the interior design class at Wayne Memorial High School learned a little bit last week about buying a house. They may not have had enough money for the down payment, but Century 21 broker Pam Pietrowski showed them what to look for when buying a home. The students toured the old Smith home on Glenwood, built in 1924, as their model. They checked the plumbing, heating, foundation, and peeked in all the closets. For more information about the house, look in the Real Estate, Etc. section of your newspaper. ANP photos by Barbara Wilson

Reservists leave jobs behind

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

When military reserves are called for active duty, they leave behind families and employers asking what they are supposed to do.

For most of the reserves, military paychecks barely pay for them to support themselves, much less trying to support the family members left behind.

"An employer doesn't have to pay the reservist while he or she is on active duty," said Capt. John Kachenmeister of the United States Army.

Some employers do make up the difference, according to Kachenmeister. But that choice is entirely up to them.

When reserves complete active duty, they are entitled to the job they had before they left.

"When he returns, he has to return as though he had never left. If he would have been eligible for a promotion while he was gone, then he is entitled to that promotion when he returns. Also, while he is away he accrues seniority," he said.

One thing the employer doesn't have to do is to continue providing the reserve's health and dental benefits. As soon as reserves are assigned to active duty, their military insurance benefits begin. The military doesn't pay for dental, but there is a dental plan offered.

"It costs about $2 a month," Kachenmeister said.

All of the debts the reservist leaves behind can be renegotiated by military officials. The reservist must make contact with the creditor before he or she leaves for active duty. Then military officials step in to negotiate with the creditor.

"We try and settle everything so that it is fair for the creditor and the soldier," Kachenmeister said.

A reservist isn't usually able to give his or her employer fair warning as to when they are going to leave for active duty. If there is a real conflict occurring, the reserve is unable to tell the employer if he is going to be called up for active duty because of security reasons, Kachenmeister said. If the reservist returns from active duty disabled, he is still entitled to the job he left behind. If he can't physically perform his old job because of his disability, the employer must still offer him a job he can do that is close to the pay he was receiving before he left.

Even if the conflict in the Middle East is resolved before the end of this year, the reservist can still choose to serve in active duty, rather than return to his civilian job. The employer has to keep the job open for the reservist for four years, according to Kachenmeister.

When a reservist returns from active duty, he has 90 days to report for work.

Oakwood is Advanced Medicine

In Vitro Fertilization

In vitro fertilization is one of several new treatments for infertility successfully being practiced at Oakwood today. This highly specialized procedure has enabled hundreds of Michigan couples, who otherwise would not have been able to conceive, to bear children. The procedure involves removal of eggs from the woman's ovaries, the addition of sperm to the eggs in the laboratory, and then placement of fertilized eggs into the uterus where the baby may develop. Physicians currently at Oakwood succeeded in developing the state's first in vitro fertilization pregnancy and have pioneered a number of new reproductive technologies.

At our state-of-the-art facility, couples undergo a comprehensive analysis process involving a team of highly skilled physicians, nurses and technicians. If you would like more information on in vitro fertilization or any of the advanced medicine we offer, your physician may refer you, or you may call the Center for Reproductive Medicine at Oakwood Hospital.

Oakwood Health Services is one of the largest health care systems in Michigan, with five hospitals, more than 30 local health care and specialty centers and more than 1,000 physicians in every major health care specialty and subspecialty. Oakwood will serve more than one-half million patients this year.

Long wait pays off for Westland, library approved

Residents didn't want to pay for it. The city couldn't afford it.

The state pulled it off, and Westland could get a library at a very reasonable price.

One of the biggest things Westland has been without, as it experienced a tremendous growth spurt during the last decade, was a library to call its own.

The Wayne-Westland branch library is located at the far reaches of Wayne, beyond a reasonable distance for residents of the north end of Westland.

The branch library is a good one, but it isn't a library for Westland.

Now, it appears as if the Wayne library will receive a much-needed face lift, and a new Westland library building will be born as a result of recently approved state legislation.

The bill has yet to gain the governor's signature, but as this is an election year, not signing it may be a big mistake for Gov. James J. Blanchard.

So, it appears as if the library is "in the book bag."

The city will be responsible for upkeep on the new building, as well as staffing, and will have to provide a site for the library. It seems, however, a small contribution for such a major benefit to the city.

Children and adults will benefit greatly from the programs that can be offered through a local library. Storytimes, adult literacy programs, book clubs — they all serve to bind a community together in the spirit of improving one's mind and learning.

The state legislature and local legislators should be congratulated on their efforts in funding such an institution, and local administrators deserve a "pat on the back" for their efforts.

Through their assistants, both Wayne and Westland will present better examples of literacy to residents.

Making trash productive is good idea

Cogeneration is an idea whose time has come.

Very few of us are pleased with having to deal with trash in any form. We don't want landfills in our neighborhoods. We don't want composting facilities in our back yards. We don't want to burn trash because of deadly gases. We don't want to sort our garbage for recycling.

We must, however, do something with the tons and tons of trash we produce each year.

Area officials are now plunging into a study of cogeneration — incinerating trash and in the process capturing energy to sell to utility companies.

What a great idea!

It's as practical as setting up composting facilities, and selling the resulting byproducts to farms.

Energy is always in demand, and trash is always around, so it is a perfect match.

A similar plant as the one being discussed locally was built in Columbus, Ohio. It cost a great deal of money to build, and it has yet to function at full capacity. It is, however, working and generating power.

Such a plant would be very beneficial to the area if it is maintained with the greatest concern for safety.

We applaud the idea, and encourage the effort.

Schools try again

Well, here we go again. Try, try and try until you succeed. And if that doesn't work, spend the money anyway and deal with the consequences later. Of course, we're talking about the Oct. 1 Van Buren School District millage proposal that was previously voted down. Now administration and the School Board, with all their collective wisdom and college degrees, have decided to bring back the school programs anyway even though they claimed all along it could not be accomplished without the millage. Question: Where did the money come from? Must be a miracle. Of course, there is a new superintendent who has been known to pull off a few miracles in the past. Only this time, folks, if you want to see a miracle it's going to cost money, your money.

Next question: Why haven't the teachers settled their contract yet? Even though the superintendent has personally been involved in the negotiations, the teachers refuse to agree to a contract. The teachers union and all other bargaining groups within the school system are waiting anxiously until after Oct. 1. If the millage passes, guess who will ask for increased wages and benefits? The current school budget is somewhere between $25 and $30 million per year.

LETTERS

Total wages and benefits to all school employees approximate 90 percent of this budget or about 25 million dollars. These figures are based on repeated calls to the school office and vary with each call.

Administration will also tell you the money generated from this upcoming millage will not be used for employee wage increases. If you believe that then you still believe all the money generated from the state lottery is going directly to the school funding program. Remember when our state government officials made that promise? I have asked members of the blue ribbon committee the same questions and they cannot give a straight answer as to where the money will eventually go if the millage is approved.

So the next time a teacher, cook, bus driver, administrator, secretary or janitor comes to your house or calls you on the phone to promote the millage, ask them a few questions.

Name withheld

Homework not done

It was obvious that the writer of the editorial, "Teachers' complaints are unreasonable," did not do his or her "homework." Please let me inform you of the realities. What follows is a brief summary of my activities beginning with the start of the 1989-90 school year and concluding with the writing of this letter.

- Three days spent before the start of each school year setting up my classroom.
- Attendance at at least three conferences designed to improve and update teaching abilities. Two of these I paid for myself and all three required my own time.
- I arrive 30-45 minutes earlier and remain 30-60 minutes later than the "7-hour" contract day.
- Average 10 hours a week at home, planning lessons and preparing materials. Some of this time is spent talking with parents on my home phone in order to accommodate them because they are not available during the school day. This doesn't count time spent reading professional books, journals and articles.
- Spent two weeks during my summer "vacation" to prepare materials for and help with the presentation of a 30-hour math workshop hosted by the district and taught by a source outside the district. I received no compensation from either the district or the outside source. My presence, and that of three other teachers, was required in order for the workshop to take place in Wayne-Westland. Eighty percent of the participants were from our district. Each person paid all or part of the tuition, was not compensated by the district for that time and about 5 percent of those present were laid off with no particular hope of returning to those positions in the fall.

- Since January I've accumulated close to $1,000 in receipts for materials I've purchased from my paycheck for use by children in my classroom.

Yes, I agree professionals should be prepared to spend some time outside of work to prepare. However, teachers spend far more time outside of the school day than they are ever given credit for. What appears above is not a conclusive list nor the example of one teacher. A similar summary could be written for the majority of teachers in this district. Now we are being asked to continue doing all of the above things and in addition spend at least 40 fewer minutes a week with our classes and have 40 fewer minutes to prepare. It's because of the kind of time, money and devotion that's required to be a teacher that young people are turning to more lucrative avenues to earn a living. Those of us who have chosen this profession do it because we believe education is the best way to improve and strengthen our society and because we derive a great deal of satisfaction from our efforts.

Noise Czar talks about plans for a quieter Wayne County

Bryan L. Amann

Particulars: As Assistant Wayne County Executive, Bryan Amann's current chief responsibility is to act as "Noise Czar" for Wayne County Metropolitan Airport. Amann frequently meets with residents near the airport who are experiencing excessive aircraft noise. After speaking to these citizens, Amann meets with representatives from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to voice their concerns and negotiate possible methods to minimize aircraft noise.

He is constantly conferring with aviation experts to find solutions.

Background: Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara appointed Amann to Assistant Wayne County Executive for Criminal Justice in December 1988. He is responsible for managing the spending on criminal justice programs (about $50 million annually), the circuit, probate, recorder's and juvenile courts.

Through ongoing negotiations with the state of Michigan, Amann has worked to acquire funding for the Wayne County child care fund, which assists neglected and abused youth. He was instrumental in establishing Kidspace, the county's innovative day care center of the county.

Education: Amann received a juris doctor, with honors from the University of Detroit in 1984 and a bachelor of arts in political science from the University of Michigan in 1979. He also studied for two years at the Georgetown University Law Center in Washington, D.C.

Home: Wayne, Michigan.

Family: Amann and his wife, Mary, have two daughters, Lindsay, 5, and Lauren, 2.

Organizations: He is a member of the Michigan Bar Association. He is also chairman of the 15th Congressional District Democratic Organization and a member of the Wayne Lions Club.

Likes: He enjoys running between five to eight miles a day to keep in good physical health. "It's a good activity, because I can run anywhere."

Dislikes: "I don't like apathy. Whether it's working to find solutions to airport noise or going out to vote, I believe an individual can make a difference." (get exact quote--this is close to what he said)

Is that your primary activity right now?

"Yes, it really is. He (McNamara) ordered me to pretty much clean my desk of all the other things I had going and focus on this. I still have to spend a few hours a week on my regular job as assistant county executive for criminal justice. I oversee the county funding for the courts and for the child care fund, which we're getting to the point that the child care fund requires a lot of attention. I have to go to Lansing on occasion and spend some time on that, but I would say that I usually spend about 50 hours a week on the noise stuff and 15 hours a week on the other stuff. So it's really been a busy summer. I look for an example, and I look at this czar title, and what will I do with it. And I look at Bill Bennett on a federal level and say this guy's the drug czar, what has he done.

Basically, that's one of the things I decided. Basically, I didn't know anything about airport noise. McNamara wanted a non-airport person, because the airport people were the ones who were trying to expand the facility, and it just seemed that they needed somebody who was not interested or already vested in the airport expansion, and that really was me. I live out in Wayne, and I was one of the first residents I can remember that was actually out on Cordell Street in Romulus that was right under, just north of the airport, so I know what it was like to live with airplane noise. So, I have a relationship with many of the mayors in the area. They know me. They trust me. I have this reputation as a hit man in the office. I hear something, and I follow it up until it is done.

"So I set out to find out what the problem was, learn something about it, and that wasn't too difficult. As soon as word got out that I was the noise czar I started to get calls from all the impacted areas, and to the point that I was getting 50 or more phone calls a day from places like Westland, Garden City and Livonia."

How did the first meeting go with the FAA-County task force?

"That was this week. Very, very well. When I first met with FAA officials back in the second week of June, I sat down with the FAA and learned this was all caused by the change in flight tracks and profiles, that were enacted last year. We had all kinds of increases in traffic in 1984 and 1988, but we didn't have many complaints then about noise. Even in the summer we didn't have a lot of problems. We had some management problems in Wayne, Taylor and Romulus that we were dealing with. This last summer was much worse than the summer before, but we had very little complaints then. The track changed Nov. 16, 1989. That was really D-Day for airport noise in Wayne County."

Since the FAA caused it, we then wanted to figure out what caused it and how do we solve it and how can we change it. Well, they were not responsive, they said this is permanent, we've done it for safety reasons, we've studied for 2 1/2 years before we did it. They didn't tell us about it, but they studied it for 2 1/2 years. We can't change them overnight, we're not going to. We said that is unacceptable, the people of Wayne County deserve better. There is no way we could stand for it. If it demanded a litigator, or whatever ... But I really never wanted to pursue litigation, because throwing things into court would have meant throwing our hands up, and I really believe this problem is solvable, so I kept beating on the FAA. We weaved a very intricate and sophisticated political, legal and factual approach. We had Congressman Ford and Congressman Dingell and Sen. Levin constantly putting pressure on them saying this is a problem you can fix without compromising safety. I hired the leading legal experts in the country, leading anti-airport noise attorneys in the country. The airport folks were just up in arms when I hired these anti-Christs of airport for our help. But I wanted the guy who could come up with creative solutions and educate me on what the county's obligation really should be on noise, and so they've done that. I've also hired former airport traffic control experts from the FAA, and they could work with us to devise new tracks and find new solutions. We also had a great element of political pressure, the FAA didn't realize that I was going to be reasonable and sensible and responsible, and so we got this Swat Team approach, this task force. It's just so unique for them. I felt like I was moving through Russian arms negotiations here, just for them to acknowledge that possibly these things are not in concrete was a major breakthrough."

What is the process now?

"The Swat Team approach. Now we're actually into solutions. We met twice this week. The team consists of four FAA control experts from all over the country, director of national operations from Northwest Airlines. There is really four-part responsibility as far as noise is concerned--there is the airport, the FAA to give us tracks over non-residential areas, and the airlines. I insisted that they be at this table during this process. I wanted these people in there. I was practically burnt in efog in Dearborn last month when I stood up and said diplomacy was the answer. I told them I'm going to put a team together, the FAA will put a team together so that we might find some expedited fashion to solve the problem. It will never happen, they said. I'm right where I want to be, although I would have liked to have the task force together in July or August, but that is life. We met, spent two days going through incredible detail about the way the airspace used to be and the new flight tracks on the second day. It's very encouraging, because just even in the review process, we are beginning to see some solutions emerge. We are fortunate in that the people the FAA put on this task force are inquisitive and interested. They like solving problems. They are going to deliver the solutions we want."

Amann went on to elaborate about the flight patterns over the area, including flights from City Airport, Willow Run and Pontiac Oakland. He said expansion at Detroit Metro will not increase the noise level, as it will only increase flight capacity by a small extent. In addition, he argued that it the need for planes to reach a certain altitude in a specific amount of time which is causing much of the problems now being experienced in surrounding communities.

McNamara will announce a plan in the next few months that will force the airlines to advance more quickly in terms of purchasing quieter aircraft. It will be steps such as this, and the task force, which will alleviate noise, Amann said, not the halt of airport expansion.

What exactly do you do as noise czar?

"As of June 10 I was appointed noise czar for western Wayne County by Ed McNamara. It really came about the same day the FAA had been sued by Taylor for noise problems. And at the same time the executive had received a call from Dearborn mayor Guido basically saying enough was enough, we have to do something about this aircraft noise. The county executive realized that for the last few years when the airport changed from a small operation to a hub operation, basically 1984 to 1988, we really hadn't had a serious noise problem. It had really been pretty manageable. We were working on the problems we were having in Taylor and Romulus, and those were problems that we felt we could deal with through our noise 150 study. So he (McNamara) realized that for some reason during the past six months prior to this, there had been some change, and we were really getting a tremendously different impact of noise. So he really decided the major decision was that instead of the county being really defensive about noise and trying to tinker around with it, that for the first time Wayne County, as an airport operator, was going to be proactive about mitigating noise. Then he (McNamara) told me that your job as noise czar was to do everything we can do as an airport operator to mitigate noise for those people who live around this airport. He really gave me carte blanche. Do whatever you have to do, go wherever you have to go, hire whoever you have to hire, fire whoever you have to fire, to get the job done. And I kind of looked around. This thing about czar kind of made me nervous. I thought back to my Russian history, and it reminded me that ... I went back to executive McNamara, and said I'm not sure about this czar title ... I kind of fished around. He said, well I want you to understand that you are in charge of the whole thing. Well, I said my memory of Russian history was that czars were always beheaded, and I think even their families were beheaded. Then he said do a good job and then that won't happen. I said that didn't seem to matter in Russia. He said we can guarantee that won't happen if you do a good job."

'This is it' Undeclared Robichaud, Highland Park duel for conference title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It's showtime in the Suburban Athletic Conference.

Undeclared and state-ranked Robichaud will host Highland Park, the defending and also unbeaten SAC champ, at 3:30 p.m. Friday to determine league title rights.

Both teams boast untarnished 3-0 SAC records going into the football game.

"This is it," said Robichaud Coach Bob Yauck. "We're both undefeated and the game will probably decide which of the teams will be the league champ. Anyway, the winner will have clinched at least half of the title. As the saying goes, it's for all of the marbles."

Yauck said the outcome of the game hinges on his team's ability to contain a pair of outstanding Highland Park backs.

"Aristotle Wilson and Cleveland Everhart are Division I-type running backs," Yauck said. "We must stop them to render Highland Park's offense impotent. If we don't, it'll be a long day for us. Either way, the outcome of this game should decide the championship."

River Rouge knows just how tough Robichaud can be. Robichaud exploded for 22 second-period points and went on to bury the Panthers 47-0.

Yauck had previously expressed concerns over the usually strong River Rouge team.

"I was worried about them because of their quickness," Yauck said. "But, obviously, my concerns vanished after the first half when we had a 41-0 lead."

Robichaud senior quarterback Tyrone Wheatley played havoc again on the Panthers. Wheatley carried the ball seven times, rushed for 60 yards and scored touchdowns of 3 and 5 yards. He also scored after recovering a fumble and running it back 60 yards. Wheatley figured in on a fourth touchdown when he teamed with Derrick Rendles on a 21-yard pass.

Cornerback Greg Murphy stole a pass and returned it 27 yards for a Bulldog TD.

Robichaud cashed in on another Rouge turnover when Andrew Parham stepped in front of a misfired Panther missile in the closing minutes of the initial half and raced 35 yards into the end zone.

With 11:08 on the clock in the fourth period, Parham connected on a 30-yard pass to Bill Flemming for the final Robichaud score.

Senior linebacker Gary Phillips played a distinguished game as he forced a pair of fumbles — one of those was the one scooped up by Wheatley who raced 60 yards for a TD. Phillips also blocked one punt, had seven solo tackles and four assists. Teammate Ralph Irwin, an outside linebacker, came up with five solo tackles and four assists, while Ernie Baskin was in on more than his share of jarring tackles.

"I felt that our defense played its best game of the season," Yauck said.

Tigers fade in final seconds

Belleville should have listened to Yogi Berra. The Tigers forgot the game isn't over until the last play, making several costly mistakes in the final minutes en route to a 19-13 loss to Wolverine 'A' Conference rival Wayne Memorial Friday night.

The Tigers' league record dipped to 1-3 (2-3 overall). Wayne upped its record to 4-0 (5-0 overall).

"We had them against the ropes. They were down a couple of times, but we just couldn't hang on," said Belleville Coach Sam Villa. "The kids played their hearts out for this one but two big mistakes cost us this game."

One of those Tiger mistakes came in the final 30 seconds of the game, allowing Wayne senior running back Jerry Rogers to break loose on a nine-yard, game-winning touchdown run.

Earlier, after Belleville had claimed a 13-7 half-time lead, Wayne returner Omar Cook returned a kickoff for an 80-yard touchdown that put the Zebras back in the game.

Belleville drew first blood in the opening quarter when tailback Chris Zaccaria scored on a short run. The elusive Tigers capped a 10-play, 42-yard drive with a one-yard TD plunge. Quarterback Todd Yocum booted the extra point to lift Belleville to a 7-0 lead.

The Tigers increased their advantage to 13-0 midway in the second quarter when Yocum and omnipresent split end Ron Hunter combined on a nine-yard touchdown pass play. Yocum's second conversion attempt failed.

Leading 13-0 at the time, Belleville also had an opportunity to put the undefeated Zebras away as they came back after an exchange of punts to march 65 yards to the Wayne 1-yard line, but then fumbled the ball.

"If we had scored that TD," Villa said, "we would have marched into the locker room with a 20- or 21-point lead. It would have been tough for them to come back on us."

"However, we didn't, and to their credit they did come back. It's the kind of season we have been having."

Belleville has now lost three close conference games, two by one point (Wyandotte and Fordson by identical 7-6 scores).

Zaccaria continued his fine rushing as he scored one TD and rushed for 92 yards on 22 carries. Hunter had an exceptional game on offense as well as defense. The split end caught seven of Yocum's 11 completed passes for 150 yards and one touchdown. Yocum finished the night with 200 yards in the air, but he had two intercepted.

Belleville will travel Friday to Southgate Anderson.

Inkster cagers remain 'perfect'

The anticipated showdown between undefeated Inkster and Ecorse for first-place rights in the Suburban Athletic Conference basketball circuit didn't materialize.

Behind a balanced scoring attack, the Vikings of Inkster humbled Ecorse 77-28.

"We got to them early and they were not a factor in this game after the first period," said Inkster Coach Dwight Hotchkiss, whose club is riding the crest of a 3-0 SAC record and an 8-1 overall record after beating Robichaud 64-27 last week.

However, the victory over Robichaud did cause some concern. Early in the first period, Inkster forward Leatrice Scott, a legitimate all-state candidate, twisted her ankle and was sidelined.

"She is all right and will be ready to play," Hotchkiss said.

Latanya McMillan picked up the slack and pumped in eight of her 12 points in the first period to stake the Vikings to an overwhelming 22-3 advantage over Robichaud. Inkster soared to a 36-8 lead at halftime, which gave Hotchkiss ample opportunity to release his bench the second half.

McMillan was one of three Vikings who finished in double figures. Tequan Abney's 15 points topped the field, while Shonette Lamar scored 13 points.

The enigmatic Red Raiders of Ecorse, who had bumped off Highland Park and River Rouge in tuning for their showdown with Inkster, fell behind 18-7 in the first period and never recovered.

Inkster led 43-14 at the intermission and increased the advantage to 62-19 after three periods.

Abney scored 12 points while four others — Alexis Watson, Tasha Davis, Lamar and Scott — each chipped in with 10 points.

The league leaders returned to SAC conference action Tuesday night when they traveled to River Rouge. They will host Willow Run tonight for another conference encounter.

Brown scores 36 as Eagles soar

Backed by a career- and game-high 36 points from Carmita Brown, Romulus stunned Dearborn Edsel Ford 59-49 last week to post its first girls' basketball victory over the T-Birds.

"According to school athletic records, we apparently have never beaten them," said Romulus Coach Tim Cullen. "Obviously we're pleased with this victory. It has also given our club a lot of confidence."

The T-Birds couldn't stop Brown, who made 17 of her 25 attempts from the field and sank two of four free throws. The 16-year-old junior forward also accounted for eight rebounds and seven steals, which led to uncontested layups.

Romulus, which led 14-11 after the first period and 28-25 at intermission, secured the victory after outscoring their rivals 14-6 in the third period, then holding the T-Birds off in the final eight minutes.

Sue Molenda had 13 rebounds and 11 points for the Eagles.

On Thursday, Romulus broke into the South Central Conference win column for the first time at the expense of Ann Arbor Huron, 60-46.

The victory boosted the Eagles' record to 1-1 in the SCC and 5-3 overall.

Brown continued her heroics as she came up with 10 of her game-high 18 points in the third period to stake the Eagles to a 40-33 lead. Romulus outscored their SCC rivals 18-13 in the last period.

Molenda kept the Eagles in the game the first half as she contributed nine of her 17 points in the first two periods. She also grabbed 13 rebounds.

"We are playing more aggressively and much better ball," said Cullen, whose club will face state-ranked and undefeated Ann Arbor Pioneer on Thursday, after clashing with a 7-2 Redford Union team Tuesday night.

Romulus no match for unbeaten Braves

Winless Romulus discovered Friday night the hard way it was no match for undefeated Ypsilanti.

Ypsilanti parlayed a 28-0 halftime lead into a 47-0 South Central Conference victory over the Eagles. The football game was abbreviated because of the mercy rule in the fourth quarter.

"We knew they had an awesome team," said second-year Romulus Coach Dan Henry. "They showed us why they are ranked among the top teams in the state. They just overpowered us. We were fortunate to come away without any serious injuries."

Henry said there was a bright spot in the defeat. He said sophomore free safety Rob Thompson showed he has potential to develop into an outstanding player.

Thompson racked up 13 tackles for the evening.

"No one broke a long one on us," Henry said. "And that's because of Thompson's efforts."

Belleville wins Wayne Invitational

Belleville runners came up with their best performance of the season Saturday morning at the 1990 Wayne Memorial Invitational cross country meet.

Sparked by Jason Kidwell's outstanding individual effort, the Tigers won their first major invitational of the year.

"This is the best our kids have run all year," said Belleville coach Dave Medley. "I think we surprised a team or two."

Belleville finished 25 points better than the perennial power, Livonia Stevenson, to capture the first-place trophy. The Tigers garnered 42 points to the second-place finishing Spartans' 67. The two top teams were followed in the final team standings by: Livonia Franklin (104), Taylor Truman (106), Wayne Memorial (115), Trenton (130), Romulus (152) and Garden City (196).

Kidwell and Rodney Westlake of Stevenson were locked in a duel for the gold medal. The two runners were stride-for-stride coming off the hill and toward the finish line where Westlake (16:44) out-kicked Kidwell (16:49) for first place. Close behind the two leaders was Belleville junior Gary Knowlton (16:59).

Belleville also received a sixth-place finish from Troy Adams (17:22). Other Tiger finishers who counted in the scoring included: Dan Durham, 10th (17:37); Keith Julian, 21st (18:22); Chris Turner, 22nd (18:23); and Tony Maciejewski, 26th (18:25).

Medley and his runners also launched the 1990 Wolverine 'A' Conference campaign last week. They lost to Monroe, the defending champ, but beat Wayne Memorial in a double-duel meet staged on the Wayne course.

On Saturday, the Tigers will travel to Livonia Franklin for an invitational meet involving area teams.

Gray finishes 1st as Tigers claim 3rd at invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Turning in their best times of the season, Belleville High girls' cross country team finished third at the Wayne Memorial cross country invitational Saturday.

Belleville also placed the best runner in the field in sophomore Ann Gray, who toured the 5,000-meter course in 19:07.

Belleville, with 54 points, finished behind invitation-winning Livonia Stevenson (38) and Trenton (50), but they placed ahead of Livonia Franklin (90), Garden City (129) and Taylor Truman (152). Romulus and Dearborn Heights Annapolis, which also fielded teams, did not finish.

Gray bolted from the field and never looked back. The 95-pound runner coasted to a 19:07 first-place finish, according to Belleville coach Sam Vicchy.

"I thought this was an excellent meet for our girls," Vicchy said. "With the exception of just one runner, all of our team members posted their best times of the season."

Vicchy said Trenton, a co-champ with Monroe in the Wolverine 'A' Conference, finished only four points ahead of his runners.

"We're closing the gap, and the league meet should be an interesting one," he said.

Gray crossed the finish line more than one minute ahead of second-place finishing Stacey Praise, who led the Spartans to victory. The runner-up ran a 20:08 for the course.

Belleville also finished fifth with Carmelita Martell, who was clocked at 20:51. Other Belleville finishers included: Rachel Hunter, 11th (21:35); Christine Wilson, 14th (22:04); Amy Fisher, 23rd (23:31); Jennifer Woodington, 25th (24:16); and Carla Blackwell, 29th (24:51).

Earlier in the week, Belleville set itself up as one of the teams to beat in the league when it shattered the image of Monroe 27-29. Monroe is a co-champ in the league. The Tigers also posted a victory over Wayne Memorial in the double-duel meet as the Zebras failed to finish.

"Our runners knew what they had to do to win and they went out and did it," said Vicchy.

PEOPLE

JUST MARRIED

Marcelli - Kenneth

The parents of Roy Anthony Marcelli are proud to announce the marriage of their son to Erika Heidi Kenneth.

The wedding was Sept. 17, at Illinois State Catholic Community Church. It was a double-ring ceremony.

The couple are both on active duty in the U.S. Navy.

Niedermeyer - Jeffries

Tracy Neidermeyer of Romulus and Ronald Jeffries of Belleville were united in marriage Sept. 1 at the First Presbyterian Church of Wayne. The Rev. Robert Dickson and Rev. David Owen performed a double-ring ceremony.

Tracy is the daughter of Richard and Jeanne Neidermeyer of Romulus and Ronald is the son of Mike and Marie Welt of Belleville.

Tracy was escorted down the aisle by her father to an altar decorated with a white-and-aqua arrangement of roses, carnations and mums. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white baby roses. She wore pearl earrings and a pearl necklace, which her grandmother, Mrs. Sue Neidermeyer, furnished. She also wore a small gold pin which was a family heirloom. The groom wore a white tuxedo with full tails.

Following the ceremony, a reception dinner dance was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Neidermeyer at Leright's Banquet Hall in Westland. Mrs. Sandy Bose designed a three-tiered wedding cake carrying out the colors of aqua and white. The cake featured a fountain in the center.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries

The couple will honeymoon on Mackinac Island and return to live in the Belleville area, where both are employed.

Sigmund Dodge starts new automotive year Iacocca to speak to dealers

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

It's that time of the year, when the automotive companies introduce the new models. One Dodge dealer is introducing the 1991 models a little differently.

"This is the biggest new car announcement show Chrysler has ever had," said Graham Frizzel, sales manager for Sigmund Dodge in Dearborn.

Although all of the Chrysler dealers participated in the introduction party the company plans, Sigmund Dodge has gone the distance.

"We'll have several celebrity hosts who will be stopping by between 6 and 9 p.m. on Oct. 2, 3 and 4," Frizzel said.

Chrysler dealerships across America were tuned in Oct. 2, to hear a live broadcast from Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca. The dealerships were all connected by Chrysler's satellite network. Just where the broadcast would be coming from was a surprise.

"We don't know where he'll be, he could be here in Dearborn or out in California somewhere," Frizzel said.

Thousands of invitations were distributed, Frizzel said. Each person who came into the showroom with their invitation received a minted coin, which was given to people just for showing up.

"It's a nice coin, and they are supposed to break the mold, which will make the coin more valuable," he said.

He estimates the value of the coin to be approximately $20.

"It's a real gift, not one of those rinky-dinky gifts places give out," Frizzel said.

Employees of Sigmund Dodge have gone one step further than many other dealers. They have made their car introduction party like a miniature auto show.

Suppliers and custom car accessory companies are at the dealership, to save the customers from having to run all over town, if they were interested in any of these services. An example would be undercoating. If the customer wanted it done by an undercoating company they were able to shop right there and then, instead of having to drive all over, to compare prices, Frizzel said.

"We're not going to try and sell cars on those nights. We want the customer to feel like they can look around. If they do want to buy a car, then we'll sell them one, but we won't be trying to sell," Frizzel said.

While the customers view the new lineup of cars, refreshments will be served.

"It's more of a big party, instead of a selling opportunity," he said.

Sigmund Dodge is located at 14765 Michigan Avenue in Dearborn. Tonight is the last chance to attend the "mini-autoshow" at Sigmund Dodge.

Premiere published Oct. 11

Another year of automotive history will be set in the books as the major automakers unveil their 1991 models.

Premiere parties, press conferences, sales and new commercials spotlight this important time of year.

Associated Newspapers will mark this occasion in history by publishing an expanded version of Wheels in the Oct. 11 edition.

"Premiere 1991" will feature all the newest models with technical information about style and design of the new cars.

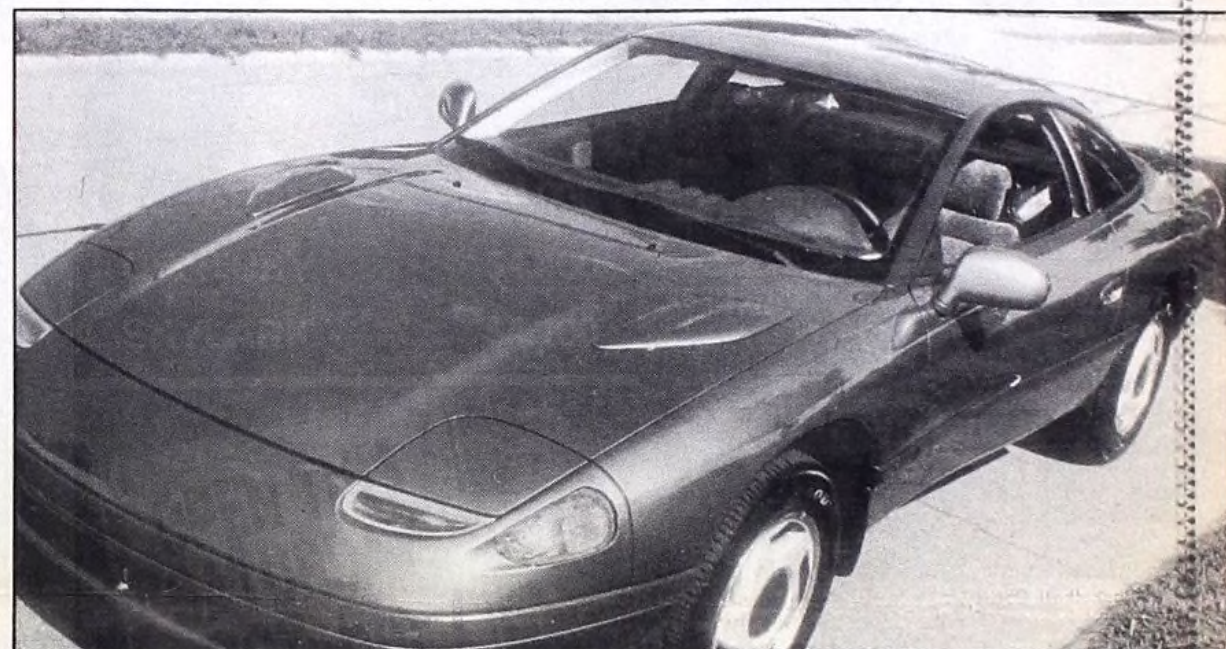

Domestic and foreign cars will be in the spotlight as readers enjoy the most complete package of automotive information.

The section will feature full-color photos and industry information, as well.

Associated Newspapers automotive sections have been recognized as one of the best designed sections around.

For those in the market for a new car, "Premiere 1991" will include a stackful of car ads for you to begin browsing in your own home.

Watch for "Premiere 1991," and be a part of history.

SIGMUND DODGE

Cordially Invites You To Their 1991 Model

Private Screening

Tues - Wed - Thur from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Lights. Camera. Advantage: Chrysler

You are cordially invited to "A Private Screening," the biggest, most exciting new vehicle announcement event since the days when cars arrived at dealerships shrouded in canvas covers. Highlights will include a satellite broadcast with a special appearance by Lee Iacocca, direct from Detroit; a special attendance gift; refreshments; and more. Sponsored by your local Chrysler Corporation dealer, entrance to the screening of 1991 vehicles will require the admission ticket below. Here are the details:

Cars and Stars

In addition to Mr. Iacocca, our new 1991 models will be the stars of this show. You will have the opportunity to review our new line-up and to take a test-drive of the vehicles of your choice—be prepared to take advantage of the opportunities this evening offers. Trained sales professionals will also be available to assist you in any questions you might have.

Your Attendance Gift: A Commemorative Silver Coin

1991 marks the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights. And when you present your "Private Screening" admission ticket on the night of the event, you'll receive a specially commissioned coin commemorating the Bill of Rights' bicentennial. This exclusively minted, limited-edition coin is a troy ounce of .999 fine silver. All dies will be destroyed to enhance its future value.

Lee Iacocca by Satellite

One of the ways you'll be entertained at "A Private Screening" will be via direct satellite broadcast from Detroit. The presentation will be in an exciting format that will include celebrity hosts, music, and a preview of Chrysler Corporation's newest vehicles. You'll also get some impressive facts about the many things Chrysler is ensuring your automotive safety. The highlight of the satellite show will be an appearance by Chrysler Corporation Chairman Lee Iacocca.

A Special Message From The Chairman

When Mr. Iacocca talks, he makes news. On the evening of "A Private Screening," he'll deliver a message that could have a significant impact on your decision to purchase a new vehicle. So be sure to attend this gala event that puts the fun back into car announcement time.
